Mode of Operation of the Placement Cell

Karmela Rani Training College is one of the most established and prestigious teacher education institutions in Kerala, and as such, many schools rely on it to select the most qualified candidates for teaching positions.

The college maintains warm professional acquaintances with all educational institutions; in fact, a number of these institutions' heads are alumni of the college. Hence, they communicate directly with the college's placement cell about job openings at their respective institutions. Alumni are informed of this via social media groups of former students and WhatsApp groups belonging to different batches. In these groups, teachers and alumni also communicate job openings from newspapers and other social media platforms. Either the interested candidates directly contact the college's placement cell, which provides them with the additional support and guidance they need to attend the interviews and help them secure the position, or the placement cell members directly contact the qualified candidate in accordance with the recruiting institution's requirements. Thus, the placement cell plays a crucial role in helping this institution's students shape their future careers.
